DETAILED ACTION

1. The previously indicated allowability of claims 5 and 7 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference applied below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The rejection of claims 1-2 and 11-20 under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by WO 02/39433 is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 1, 5, 7, 13, 15, 17, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2000-339659 (machine translation) in view of Inaba et al. (WO 02/39433 see US 6846583 for English translation of this document).

JP 2000-339659 discloses a magnetic recording medium having an orientation control layer having a C11b structure formed from GeMo, MoSi, ReSi or SiW (abstract and paragraph 31). The reference teaches the use of a CoCrPt magnetic layer and a protective film thereon. The reference is silent with respect to the use of a soft magnetic under-film between the orientation control layer and the substrate.

Art Unit: 1773

Inaba et al. (see English equivalent US 6846583 for full English translation. All column and line number references set forth herein refer to US 6846583) disclose a perpendicular magnetic recording medium having a substrate, a soft magnetic layer, an orientation control layer, a perpendicular magnetic layer and a protective layer (see Fig 2). The reference teaches that the orientation control layer is formed from a bct material (i.e. body centered tetragonal or C11_b) and has a thickness of 5 nm – see col. 8, lines 35-65; col. 18, lines 9-26. The reference teaches that the soft magnetic layer is provided beneath the orientation control layer to serve as a flux return path in a perpendicular recording system.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to add a soft magnetic layer beneath the orientation control layer taught by JP 2000-339659 in order to provide a flux return path for perpendicular recording.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3 and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The closest prior art as cited above fails to teach or suggest the claimed alloys for use as orientation control layer materials.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 7/1/05 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
